

Genesis

Absolute silence spreads throughout the kingdom of eternity.

Nothing comes to upset the existence of time which, along with the intangible beauty, has ruled this kingdom for millions of years. Harmony, serenity, freedom and flexibility accompany each moment of this eternity.

A Droplet of light flows somewhere in this vast ocean of cosmic serenity.

Vital energies come from everywhere, from the universe, the stars, and the earth to infuse life's breath into her, giving her a luminous and translucent aura.

Vibrations of gold, blue, turquoise, pink, emerald green, yellow, orange and red light embrace her, giving her sensory abilities.

Energized and revitalized from the constant flow of vital force burrowing into her, Droplet begins to swirl and slide about, to roll within this kaleidoscope of energy and color, of this wondrous world of beauty. The higher force which flows within this universal womb nourishes Droplet with all the genius, knowledge, experiences and memories which she has acquired through eternity.

Droplet was born from the energy of the universe, and is part of it. From the universe, she inherited her luminosity and the immortality of her existence. She will never die because energy never dies.

Droplet now begins to grow and radiate more and more light. She becomes an endless source for other, identical droplets which spring from within her, creating a numinous fountain of light. Countless shining droplets scattered throughout the vastness of the universe, each following their own purpose.

Through their identity with the original droplet, each of them will nestle in some form of existence, whether plant, animal or human, which will host them for the duration of its life, to constitute its higher self, to become its higher consciousness.

The evolution of every existence will depend on the level of consciousness found within it. No existence, however, is alone as long as it has a piece of the universe itself within it and as long as it is a part of it.

In whatever form of existence she burrows, Droplet's purpose is to lead it to its ultimate fulfillment. She will make the flowers bloom, the trees grow, the birds sing, and the animals roam.

She will lead people to true happiness.

Droplet, through the vital energy which flows within her, has the feelings of life itself engraved within her. She feels profound happiness though, which constitutes her state of being.

Droplet is happy simply because she exists. Her happiness is expressed through the pulse of life itself which beats within her, through the freedom of movement and the radiance that characterizes her.

Nothing and no one can take away all that constitutes the wealth of her existence.

Besides, how can someone deprive a droplet of light of all the radiance, movement and beauty she carries within her?

If you confine her or enclose her somewhere, she will find a way to obtain freedom and to shine once again through her reality.

Thus Droplet begins her journey, descending to the planet Earth.

She knows she is not alone, that the whole universe is beside her.

Floating on the azure of the sky, Droplet reaches her destination.

All of nature's elements approach her, wanting to support her in her hallowed task.

The earth offers to nourish the roots of happiness she feels within her, the wind to become the messenger of her word, the water to reflect her radiance around the world and the sun to give her the strength to move forward in the fulfillment of her purpose.

Droplet smiles, recognizing the existence of the higher universal force flowing within her as a guide on the path of her life.

Through the immense trust bestowed upon her by the strong unity with the universal force, Droplet decides to nestle within a human being this time.

Because Droplet never forgets the purpose of her life.

She has promised herself to spread happiness throughout the world, teaching people to be happy.

She has promised to convey to them the knowledge and wisdom of the higher universal force which is hidden within her.

Because, deep in her soul, Droplet is a teacher full of love, who has a need to share. She wants to change the world, she wants to help other existences find their own happiness within them.

And alas!

Somewhere on Earth, she sees a swirl of energy, colors and emotions. It is reminiscent of the same sense of the universal womb from which she was born.

'This is where I will slip in,' Droplet thought. 'I will enter this kaleidoscope of color that is so familiar to me!'

And with one motion, one maneuver, she burrowed into the embrace of pink and emerald light, the colors of the heart's energy, of love.

And suddenly, all of this is lost and she finds herself in a closed, damp and dark place. This time she is in a human womb.

Droplet, though, through the universal force which overflows within her, has a memory, she knows, she remembers. The voice within her says, "Don't worry, this will only last nine months."

But Droplet, being used to freedom, is impatient to get out.

She can no longer wait, so after eight months she decides to free herself.

This time she is not an intangible light. She nestles and is born in a beautiful rosy-skinned, blonde-haired baby girl, to become her higher self, her consciousness and to help her evolve, guiding her to the happiness that every existence is entitled to when it enters the world.

Just a few minutes after her birth, the entire universe came to welcome the baby girl.

The sun gifted her with its warmth, dressing her in an ethereal garment that it had woven itself on the loom in its home using its brightest rays.

The sky, as a citizen of the world, planted within her heart and mind the opening of its infinity and the vastness of its worldwide presence.

The wind breathed into her the sense of freedom which would characterize her every expression throughout her life.

The night gave her the stars and the moon to soothe her and calm her in both difficult and easy moments.

The trees gave her their sturdy roots so that she could stand firmly upon the ground to weather whatever storms she would face later in life.

The flowers trickled their perfume all over her being so that she would remain unforgettable to all who met her.

The waters of the rivers and seas gifted her with their flexibility so that she could wind her way past any obstacle in her life.

Will, strength, courage, kindness, love, creativity, positivity, gratitude, honesty, joy, enthusiasm, sincerity, and generosity were the gifts offered by life itself to accompany her openhandedly on her path. With one gentle movement, life – hovering over the baby – whispered in her tiny ears:

“You will be a charismatic and blessed woman who will share generously with all humanity all the gifts I have endowed to you. Many are those who will recognize within and around you the elements and aspects of themselves.

“Your life will be filled with experiences, you will face many difficulties, you will endure great pain, but the time will come when you will shine within your own radiance on the path of your life. The light within you will awaken the sleeping souls of many people, who, through your inner beauty, will discover their own sun within them.”

Thus the baby began to discover the world around her and to etch her own path in life. She grew, becoming a toddler, a wonderful little girl, an adolescent, evolving into a young woman with a smile of trust illuminating her face because she had Drop-let's presence etched in her memory and she felt deep in her soul the words she had told her upon her birth:

“I will be by your side, guiding you throughout your life. I will be your consciousness, your higher self, a part of the universe within you.

“I will be the one who will always know what is best for you and I will guide you there, often in ways you can’t imagine.

“There will be difficult moments when you will feel I have abandoned you. That is something that will never happen because whatever I send into your life will be sent for one sole purpose: to guide you toward true happiness.

“Through me, you will experience your strong unity with the higher universal force as soon as you become acquainted with yourself, realizing the reason for your existence in this life.

“You will meet many people, teachers of all descriptions will enter your life. That’s why I will endow you with many talents, many qualities and sensitivities, so that you will be able to feel and perceive everything in your soul and around you.

“Since you will adore nature – being born on the 21st of March, the first day of spring – I will give you the name of a flower which has the white radiance of all the colors of the rainbow together. A flower that will characterize you with its exquisitely discreet yet strong perfume, that will become etched in the memory of all who meet you.

“I will name you Malti, which in one of the most ancient languages in the world means 'jasmine flower'. And I will give you a second name as well, the name Anishka, which means 'ultimate reality', the one you will discover in the course of your life and through which you will express yourself, radiating all the light I have hidden within you.

"I want you to know, my beloved being, that the time will come when you will follow your own path, the path that will make your heart sing, your mind serene, your inner sun shine; the path where you will use all your wealth, talents and abilities to create for your greater good and the good of all. And then the jasmine flower will blossom and will perfume through your ultimate reality. And the whole world around you will shine.

"Welcome to this life, Malti Anishka!"